

For Immediate Release

Contact:

Lisa Glinche

Cutting Edge Solutions

1+(303) 814-1976x1

lisa.glinche@ces-inc.com

January 12, 2008

Cutting Edge Solutions, Inc. Acquires evado solutions, inc.

Cutting Edge Solutions, Inc., a provider of department to enterprise-level content management solutions with headquarters in Kansas City, recently acquired evado solutions, inc., a Denver-based document management company. The merging of each respective company's wealth of expertise, award-winning document management offerings and roster of satisfied clients will result in an organization ideally poised to expand its ability to help organizations compare, select and implement systems that capture, manage, store, deliver and preserve mission-critical content and documents related to organizational processes.

Jameson Nunn, President of Cutting Edge Solutions, notes, "This acquisition is a perfect example of two well respected, high producing companies coming together in tough economic times to offer delivery solutions that will save customers both time and money." Lisa Glinche, President of evado solutions, agrees. "Now more than ever, companies have to closely monitor their expenditures. Utilizing the combination of our document management tools means they will streamline processes, maximize results and increase profit."

Each company brings well-established mutual benefits to the joint venture. "Cutting Edge has incredible technical expertise, a solid association with Datacap, OnBase, Fujitsu and KnowledgeLake and a large cache of referenceable customers," Glinche comments. "evado has a strong customer base in the Denver market and unimpeachable sales and marketing expertise," said Nunn. A fuller roster of the best available document management solutions is the result of joining forces. Datacap, OnBase, Fujitsu, KnowledgeLake, Captaris, 4matix, FileNet, Kofax, SpringCM, and Digitech Systems are among the leading edge software and hosted solutions that they will now be able to offer.

Cutting Edge Solutions' plan is to provide for the identification, accountability, control, filing, retention, storage and protection of records. They will now be able to help companies go paperless by providing them with vertical and industry expertise that enables them to compare, select and configure solutions that capture, route, manage, share and archive information that is critical to business operations, audits and compliance. Additionally, they offer the combination of consultative analysis, understanding client document handling expectations and providing the application solutions that fits clients' records requirements and budget. For more information, go to www.ces-inc.com.

###

